Mobile311 Developer Attains ESRI Certification

Cary- January 2011: Mobile311, LLC (www.mobile311.com) today announced that Lead Developer Chuck Wright has achieved the ESRI certification of Web Application Developer Associate. This certification assesses the level of technical expertise in using ESRI software.

The Certification Program recognizes professionals who work in the field of geographic information systems. "ESRI set the industry benchmark for GIS technology. Now we're setting a standard for users, establishing a community of individuals who've demonstrated their proficiency in using ESRI software," said Nick Frunzi, director of Educational Services at ESRI. "This raises the bar for ArcGIS skills."

"I believe this certification shows our commitment to providing the highest quality products and service to our clients," said Chuck Wright, Lead Developer of Mobile311. "With over ten years of experience building ESRI-based websites, I understand how important it is to our clients that our product work in tandem with their existing GIS systems."
